UP NINE POINTSZach Wheat Makes Big Gain, as Does Connolly of the Boston Braves.Steele, Brooklyn's batting pitcher, is still at the top of the National League batting averages. He played in two games last week, but on neither occasion did he last long enough to come into bat and his average is still .368.
Jack Dalton retains the real leadership, but lost ground during the week with a slump of eight points.Eddie Grant made a determined rally, and picked up nine points. He is not batting at .325, just five points behind Dalton. A new contender for honors is Jake Dauber, who made fourteen hits in a week, and thereby made a total of seven points, which raised his average to .321. Heals Becker just behind him at .316.Zach Wheat was among the most active hitters during the period just past, and made the phenomenal gain of thirteen points. This advance put him in the 300 class, with a .311 mark.
Wheat made sixteen hits, for a grand total of 141, during the season. Connelly, of the Braves, made a gain, even though the Giants were in Boston, and boosted his stock seven points for a
.313 average.The following figures are compiled Still Leads Yankers.Ty Cobb, who has trailed for the greater part of the season, is now making a bold bid for the batting leadership in the American League. Ty did not raise his average last week, but he held his place and as his rivals dropped back the period was one of profit. Cobb is now only four points from the top.Eddie Collins, batting better than ever, is now the leader with an average of .355. He took two points during the week, but Mike Mitchell, who had been in the van, dropped 34 points and fell to fifth place with an average of .329.

Joe Jackson lost nine points, but he is still a strong contender for the honors, as his average is .353. Dick Hobbs lost four points and is tied with Jackson.This Speaker, who threatened for a time to get into the race, lost a valuable opportunity to make up ground and dropped two points. His average is .352. Bertha Home Run Baker is saving up for the world series, for he slid down 13 points in seven days and is now at .319. McInnis is pressing him closely with .313. Birdie Cree, best hitter of the Yankees, fell two points, but he is still high, with a .327 average.The following figures are compiled
